Tracy shifts gears

Indy Car driver Paul Tracy slowed down a bit, driving a Zamboni after the first period.

Tracy, 27, drives for Marlboro Team Penske and has led every testing session he has run this week at inaugural IndyCar Spring Training at the Homestead Motorsports Complex. He became the youngest driver in the auto history to reach the $1 million mark (at 24) and in only his first four seasons in Indy cars, Tracy has scored 10 wins and seven poles. Tuesday, Tracy led the testing on the oval at 194.846 mph. Thursday, he led the testing on the road course at 111.697 mph.

At full-throttle, a Zamboni goes about 10 mph.

Indy car driver Paul Tracy goes for a different type of ride under the guidance of Zamboni driver Mary Rosenberg.
